delivering what matters most.

result-driven loss control services

For more than 25 years, CCMSI has been providing companies with result-driven loss control services as part of our comprehensive approach to risk management services. Our skilled loss control professionals are part of an advanced, well-organized team. And they're committed to giving you the customized, cost-effective health and safety programs you need to reduce injuries while enhancing your bottom line. ■

GETTING STARTED.

As your loss control partner, we'll start by conducting a quantifiable, on-site audit that will identify your current areas of strength, as well as areas of deficiency. This survey includes the evaluation of safety management, core program elements, hazard-specific controls and overall regulatory compliance. By conducting this initial step, we'll obtain the information necessary to help you set realistic, cost-conscious management and safety goals. Procedures and timetables will be developed to help you with implementation. Along the way, we'll also provide you with extensive technical assistance, managerial and hazard-specific training, as well as measurement of your results.

GOING BEYOND.

CCMSI loss control personnel are part of an overall client service team that incorporates the operational functions of claims management and underwriting in order to provide you with integrated and coordinated client services. Our loss control professionals have considerable experience in many specialized areas, including construction, transportation, government at the municipal and township level, school districts, restaurants, manufacturing, moving, furniture, ready-mix concrete and health care.

CCMSI takes great pride in its service capabilities. Since 1978, we've been providing loss control assistance to valued customers. We believe that having specialized consultants are a great value to our clients. Many of our loss control professionals have worked in the fields where they now assist customers. Which is why we understand you better. And why we go beyond to give you the service you need.
